Monarch Football

The Methodist Monarchs began their 16th season of football with the intention of washing the bitter taste of a 4-5 season out of their mouths. Head Coach Jim Sypult completed his 13th year at Methodist by leading the Monarchs to a 7-3 overall record with a 4-2 second-place finish in the rugged USA South Athletic Conference. The team got off to the second-best start in school history with a 5-1 start before crucial losses to conference powerhouses Shenandoah and Christopher Newport, which derailed their hopes for a USA South Conference Championship and the automatic NCAA Tournament bid that comes with it. Despite the setbacks, the Monarchs' successful season will set the foundation for many years to come.

Chris Kidder

was the Monarchs starting, freshman, punter. He's pictured doing what he's best at, punting. Kidder was remembered this season for his 14 yard run against Greensboro. "The punter can run," was heard all over the stands.

Chris Ronketti

If you don't know Chris Ronketti, you should. He is the starting Quarterback for the Monarchs. Here he is seen breaking a tackle to run the ball down the field. Ronketti led the team with 480 yards rushing and threw 1,233 yards, which included 12 touchdowns.

Methodist College's men's and women's cross country teams enjoyed many positive moments during the 2004 season as freshman newcomers Husein Nasiro-Sigo and Krystal Patton made key contributions. Nasiro-Sigo had an amazing run as he became the first runner since Frank Curiel in 1996 to win an individual USA South championship. He also became the first runner since Christine Tovar to be selected to the USA South's first team, and he finished the season by representing Methodist in the Division III NCAA South Regionals in Atlanta. Patton was a second-team all-USA South selection this season and set a course record with a time of 28:45 during the Clayton Sykes Invitational on September 25. Junior Tim McArthur was also recognized as a second team USA South selection as he, Patton, and sophomore Jamie Davis, junior Will Helms, freshman Kandi Adams-Alexander, and sophomore Adonis Stanley joined Nasiro Sigo in Atlanta.

The Methodist College Mens Soccer team holds a long list of individual and team achievements and has a winning tradition known far and wide. They're proudly led by Head Coach Justin Terranova '97, in his third season back at Methodist. Also to help the Monarchs along was Assistant Coach, Matthew Hisler. The Monarchs had 11 wins, 6 losses and 2 ties this season. They lost their eight game beaten streak in an upsetting loss against their rivals, Greensboro College. That did not keep the Monarchs spirit down, they had a outstanding come-back and beat Greensboro 1-0 to advance to the USA South Athletic Conference Tournament Championship. The conference championship fell short for Methodist when they lost 2-0 against the North Carolina Wesleyan in the championship. The Monarchs were lead by their four senior captains Thomas Bennet, Sean Wright, Justin Agema, and Brian Eichenberg. Their love of the game and strong dedication made 2005 a very successful season.

Senior, and starting goalie for Methodist, Justin Agema takes a free kick. Justin was honored as player of the week by the USA South Athletic Conference and was selected All-Tournament team.

Women's Soccer

Women's Soccer-The Methodist College women's soccer team set out to build on a successful USA South regular-season championship in 2003 with another stellar year in 2004. The 2004 team had a very successful year as head coach Bobby Graham led the Lady Monarchs to a 12-7-2 record with a 5-1-1 mark in the USA South Conference. The team advanced all the way to the finals of the USA South conference tournament at Christopher Newport University before losing a 2-1 overtime thriller to the first-place Captains on November 6. The Lady Monarchs placed seven ladies on the All-USA South team and freshman Chrystal Bradley was named USA South Rookie of the Year after leading the USA South in scoring with 13 goals and 29 points. The Lady Monarchs will be looking to build on their 2004 season by advancing even further in 2005.

Mr. Methodist

Mr. Methodist is a brand new tradition created by the Department of Student Media. It was directed by the Director of Student Media Lindsey Tederman and co-chaired by students Hannah Hamer, Tanya Bradshaw and Melanie Gibson.

The Winners are...

2 The Host

A special thanks to Miss Fayetteville 2005 Brooke McLaurin. Along with singing the opening performance number, "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree" (as seen above), she hosted the entire pageant.

The Casual Wear

Nick Kimps, junior, is showing off his casual wear to the judges. The casual wear showed the judges how the contestants represented themselves every day.

The Talent

Eric Staley, junior, recited a very moving poem for his talent. His poem made all the girls in the audience say, "Awwwww!"

4

Opening Performance

At the end of the opening performance, the contestants joined McLaurin on-stage for a mini dance number.

...that's a good question.

"That's a good question," replies Dante Alvarado, senior, after he was asked what his favorite animal is and why. The question and answer period helped the judges learn more about the contestants' personalities.

Fuzzy Time of Year

7

Junior Miss Fayetteville Dogwood Festival 2004 Vanessa McClelland entertained the crowd with the song, "Fuzzy Time of Year." She was also the contestants' escort.

8

The Formal Wear

Jon Sherman, senior, is seen here walking across the stage in his formal wear. This portion of the pageant showed off what the guys wear for special occasions, and how they carry themselves in a pressured situation.

Merry Christmas

10

Hannah Hamer, co-chair, sang her rendition of, "Have yourself a Merry Little Christmas." Other specialty acts included the Methodist College Dance Team and a song by Keva Wilson and Jonathan Thomas.

9

Tapping his way into our hearts!!

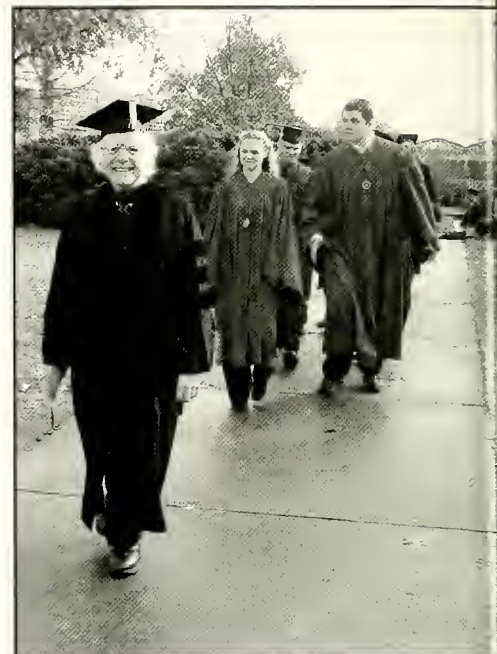

Sean Brennan was one of two contestants to compete. Here, Brennan is introducing himself to the judges and audience. He performed a tap number for his talent, and said he is already preparing for next year's competition.

Methodist Students Answer the Call to Care Show You Care Day 2005

Methodist Students LaToya Robertson and Keva Wilson show off their painted hands after they helped paint the gazebo during Show You Care Day 2005.

The Methodist College community woke up bright and early to brave the chilly weather and participated in the college's annual Show You Care Day on April 16, 2005. Students teamed up with the Student Life staff to help refurbish and repair some of MC staff member Mike Sinkovitz's (a.k.a. Coach Sink) projects, which included the gazebos in front of the Berns Center, the porch on the back of Chris' Home and the outside basketball courts in front of the Berns. Students and staff were served breakfast and lunch at the Green and Gold Cafe and were rewarded a free T-shirt for their hard and arduous work.

The Soldiers Creed:

I am an American Soldier.

I am a Warrior and a member of a team.

I serve the people of the United States and live the Army Values.

I will always place the mission first.

I will never accept defeat.

I will never quit.

I will never leave a fallen comrade.

I am disciplined, physically and mentally tough, trained and proficient in my warrior tasks and drills. I always maintain my arms, my equipment and myself.

I am an expert and I am a professional.

I stand ready to deploy, engage, and destroy the enemies of the United States of America in close combat.

I am a guardian of freedom and the American way of life.

I am an American Soldier.

Monarch Players Present Little Red Riding Hood...the Opera

"Little Red Riding Hood...the Opera," by Seymour Barab, directed by Evan M. Bristenstine was a fun and enjoyable production for audiences of all ages.

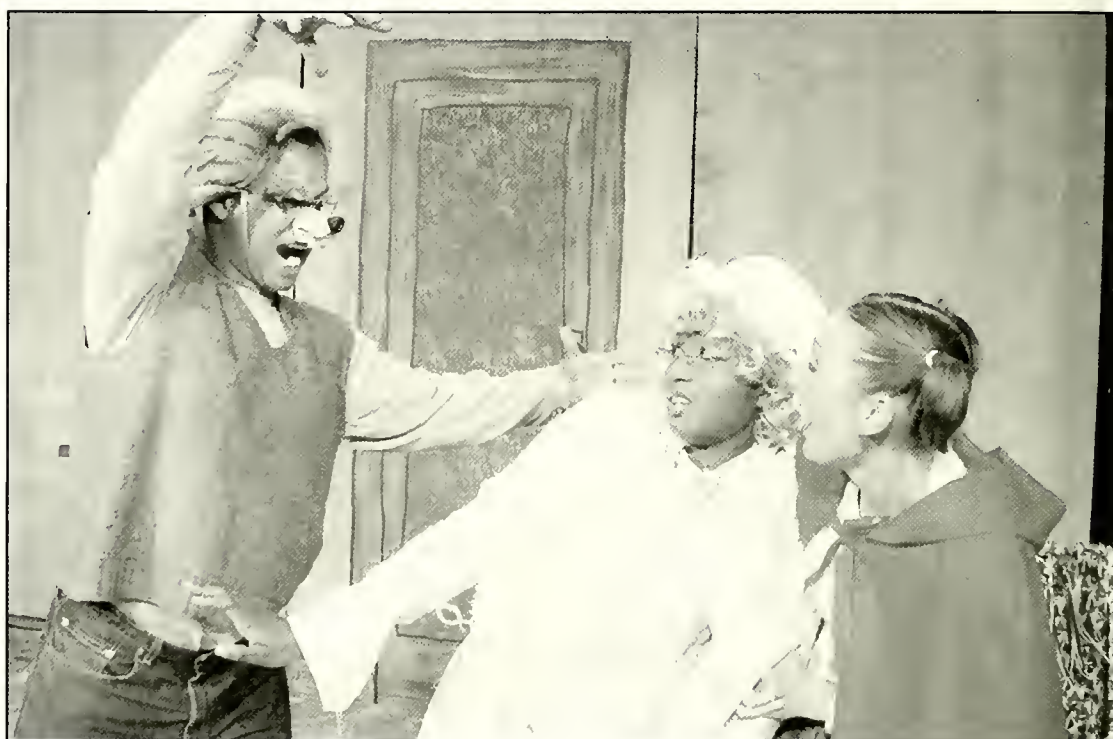

It was performed during the third week of November in the mornings for local elementary school children and then Friday and Saturday night at 7 p.m. and a Sunday matinee in Reeves Auditorium. "Little Red Riding Hood...the Opera" was an approximately forty-five minute operetta not only telling the story of Little Red Riding Hood, but also promoting good morals. The major morals being "don't talk to strangers" and "listen to your parents."

Directed cleverly by Bristenstine, the story was easy to follow and fast paced.

Ashley Kotz gave an absolutely darling performance as Little Red Riding Hood with her adorably exaggerated facial expressions and beautiful singing voice. Miranda Haeflinger wonderfully portrayed both Little Red Riding Hood's Mother and Grandmother, making each of them individualized in their own right. The Grandmother's walk was quite comical. Andrae Sanders played not only the hungry Wolf, but also the Wolf's ultimate demise, the Woodsman. The Wolf was wonderfully rotten and hungry, but not for strawberries, while the Woodsman heroically saved the day.

The music was lively and the lyrics were witty. The set, although seemingly simple, was quite effective. Double sided rotating flats were used, with one side painted as the forest and the other painted as the interior of the house used for both Little Red Riding Hood's house and Grandmother's house. The brightly colored set and costumes made for a great picture book effect.

It was an overall great performance of music, song, and story; bravo Methodist College Departments of Theatre and Music!

Top: Little Red Riding Hood (Ashley Kotz) suddenly realizes what big teeth her grandmother has. The Wolf (Andrae Sanders) chases after Grandmother (Miranda Haeflinger) and Little Red Riding Hood.

Monarch Players Presents: Horton Foote's 1918

Horton Foote's "1918" was performed at Reeves Auditorium February 22-23, and again on the next weekend, February 24-27. "1918" is said to be one of the most dramatic productions that Methodist College has produced.

Taking place during World War I, the play focuses on the Robedeaux family from a small town in Texas. The story follows Horace Robedeaux, played wonderfully by Caleb Roselle, and his struggle between his duty to his family and his duty to his country, only to come down with a horrible case of the flu that has spread all over the town. His wife, Elizabeth Robedeaux, played very believably by Tracey Allyn, strives to keep her family together and stay healthy. She finds herself very busy with her baby, her sick husband, and keeping her brother, Brother Vaughn, played energetically by David Merrill, out of trouble. Elizabeth's own parents, played incredibly by Robert Bloodworth and Elizabeth Daisley, deal with their own bout of flu, an over zealous son, and are always worrying about Elizabeth. The play leaves you with the message, which Horace repeats, "I want to live life."

Highlighting performances include Tracey Allyn, who seemed to have the most lines of the play, she delivered her lines eloquently making them unlike lines at all. Merrill brought an endearing sense of eagerness to his character, making him very entertaining to watch. Robert Bloodworth and Elizabeth Daisley played loving parents quite believably. Marianne Parker, who played the character Irma Sue is friends with Gladys Maude, played by Sara Packard, delivered the funniest line of the whole production being, "God doesn't like liars."

The set was made up of three different levels representing three different parts of the house. The first level was the street outside of the Robedeaux house, the second was the living room of the house, and the third level being Horace and Elizabeth's bedroom. The lighting gave everything a sort of warm tone. The performers were easy to hear and the sound effects were appropriate.

Overall, "1918" was a well done production. Directed skillfully by Dr. Paul Wilson and performed pleasingly by the cast. Good job everyone.

ANOTHER SEASON, ANOTHER YEAR OF DOMINANCE: Monarchs Roar In Fall 2004

The 2004 winter sports season saw Methodist College's sports teams and individual athletes accomplish great things. The Monarch football team (pictured, top right) placed 11 players on the All-Conference Squad as they compiled a 7-3 overall record with a 4-2 mark in the USA South Athletic Conference. The Monarchs' season was their best effort since 2000, when they finished with the same 7-3 record. Cross country saw a new freshman sensation emerge, as Ethiopia native Husein Nasiro-Sigo became the first Monarch since 1996 to win an individual conference championship. He won the 2004 USA South individual championship and was named to the USA South All-Conference first team. Men's soccer was within one game of an NCAA Tournament bid as they recorded their third straight winning season with a 11-6-2 overall record. Women's soccer had as successful a season as their male counterparts as they finished with a 12-7-2 overall record and finished the season an overtime goal away of winning the USA South conference tournament championship. Volleyball struggled this season with a 12-20 record and an a 3-11 mark in the USA South, as injuries forced coach Eddie Matthews to use 10 different starting lineups.

Seth Thomas makes his move for the ball. Methodist College had great defensive pressure all season long.

Eugene Grant, a junior, charges through the mix of players to make a layup for Methodist. Grant was a lead scorer on the team.

Ballers in Action

Senior, Sam Porter, takes a shot. Porter recorded three double-doubles in three Methodist victories.

Marcus Hairston, takes the ball down the court. Hairston was named USA South Athletic Conference Rookie of the Week.

The Monarchs set up their defense on the court. They Monarch's had a very strong defense this season.

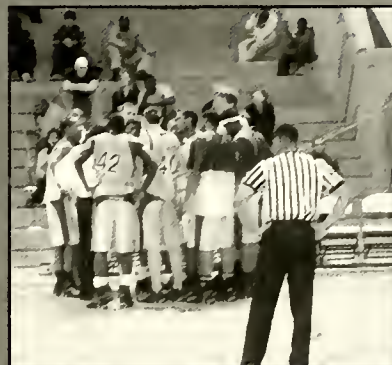

Booth, a senior, guards his opponent. Booth was a starting senior this year and ended his career on a good note. He was a key player for the Methodist Monarchs.

The Methodist men's basketball program followed up a breakthrough 2003-2004 season with a dominant 2004-2005 campaign in which the Monarchs reached heights that they had not been since the 1996-1997 season. Head Coach David Smith's Monarchs finished the year with a 20-8 overall record as they won the USA South regular season championship for the third year in a row, and claimed the USA South conference tournament title and a NCAA tournament bid for the second year in a row. Senior forward Sam Porter was named the USA South Player of the Year and junior guard/forward Seth Thomas was named to the USA South All-Conference First Team. For their efforts, the Monarchs saw their first 20-win season since 1996-1997.

men's Basketball Team has a Successful End of Season

2004-2005 edition of the Lady Monarch women's basketball team had its ups and downs this season, but head coach DeeDee Jarman and her squad managed to successfully lay down the foundation for championship success in the future. The inexperienced Monarchs played several freshmen in key roles. They posted a 12-15 record with a 5-9 record in the USA South conference. But the young Lady Monarchs made a run in the USA South conference tournament as they reached the tournament finals the third time in four seasons. Although they fell to top-seeded Greensboro in the finals, their admirable effort in reaching the finals as a sixth seed provided a springboard for next season. This season also saw Jarman become the all-time winningest women's basketball coach at Methodist, as she now owns 131 career victories in her tenure here at Methodist.

stuff

Methodist College Dance Team is coached by Melissa Hay. The whole team has put a lot of time and energy into the squad. They performed at the basketball games as well as basketball games during the half times and time outs. Coach Hay says "The year has gone really well and with all the improvement and their hard work and dedication"

They usually practice three times a week for an hour and a half to two hours. Not only do they practice then, but also before classes during morning workouts to keep themselves in shape.

During the off-season they still practice three times a week and prepare for the next season while working on technique and staying in shape. They are the spirit of Methodist College.

Methodist College

New Methodist's men's tennis coach Eddie Luck made his first season a success this season as he guided the Monarchs to a 9-9 overall and 6-0 in USA South play. The highlight of the Monarchs' season came in April when the team emerged victorious in the USA South conference tournament with a 16-point finish over runner-up Christopher Newport. In addition to the Monarchs' first tournament victory since 2002, junior Keith Criscoe became the first player in school history to be named USA South Player of the Year.

Bottom left and right: Sisters Courtney and Leighton Bull were key to the Monarchs' success this season. Senior Courtney was a three-time USA South Player of the Week, and freshman Leighton was a two-time USA South Rookie of the Week.

Freshman Lauren Hulse was a runner-up in singles at the USA South Tournament.

The Methodist College women's tennis team tackled the challenge of capturing their fifth straight USA South Conference Championship in 2005 with an extremely young squad. The Lady Monarchs dressed five freshmen in 2005 but were still able to rise to the challenge as they won 11 out of 12 at one point in the season. They finished with a 13-3 overall record and an unblemished 7-0 record in USA South play. The Lady Monarchs were just as dominant in the USA South Conference tournament as they blazed a trail to second-place Christopher Newport by 10 points to capture their fifth consecutive USA South Conference tournament title. Individually, senior Courtney Bull, freshman Jenny Smith and sophomore Julie Angrick captured singles titles in the conference tournament, while the team of Angrick and freshman Leighton Bull came away with a doubles championship. Head coach, Kelly Callahan, was honored as the 2005 USA South Coach of the Year for the second consecutive season for her efforts in leading the young Lady Monarchs.

Spring Graduation

Top Right: Students smiled at the camera for the last time before they were officially dubbed "graduates."

To all my fellow Students, Faculty, and Administration;

I sincerely hope all of you enjoy looking through the yearbook you hold in your hands. It represents everything that makes this a great institution- each of you. A lot of love and hard work went into this book by an outstanding staff and our adviser Lindsey Tederman. They were a great joy to work with. Now sit back, relax, and enjoy some of the great moments that we shared in our 2004-2005 academic year!!!!

With great respect,

Kayla Ruh, Editor in Chief

This book is dedicated to...
